Teen* S.L.I.P. (Summer Learning/Library Interaction Program) 2014

Since learning can happen at any time and in many ways, we want you to connect with the library as an access point for further learning this summer. So, although reading and listening to books still counts, Newberg Library asking you to find learning options (maybe you'll even want to read them!) at the library connected to ANY of your activities or experiences or challenges this summer. This might be a related book, a magazine or newspaper article from one of our databases, or letting us know that we don't own a particular book that you've read. You can do this at the library or online from where ever you have internet access.

NOTE: The internet in general and other websites do NOT count. Only interactions through our library's resources may be used for the Learning Options that aren't reading or listening to a book. See examples below & in your packet when you register for this program at the Library.

*This portion of the Library Summer Program is for youth entering 6th grade through 18 years of age.
